

AMERICAN SHIPS UNDER FIRE IN SCANDIAN FIGHT

Conflict as to Identity of Source of Bullets Which Raked Them

New York, May 3—(AP)—The bullet-scarred American freighter Flying Fish returned from the Norwegian war zone today with an exciting story of how she and another American vessel were caught in a furious battle between German land and sea forces and allied warplanes last month at Bergen.

Even before the ship docked there was a sharp conflict between the captain and some members of the crew as to whether they were raked by allied or German bullets.

Capt. W. W. Wollaston, veteran of the United States Navy during the World war, declared his ship was struck accidentally by bullets from a Norwegian land battery which had been taken over by the Germans and which was firing on British warplanes.

"I was on the bridge and I saw everything that happened," he said. "The shore battery fired on our ship by accident."

Sixteen of the 48 members of the crew, however, were equally emphatic in a signed statement that their ship was raked—accidentally, they agreed—by one of the allied planes.

The ship's log described the incident as follows:

Entry in Ship's Log
"April 12 x x x 5 p. m. During an air raid, a plane circled between the Flying Fish and the line of fire of shore batteries, and a spray of machine-gun bullets struck the Flying Fish, hitting the foredeck and several drums of oil on deck. No member of the crew was injured."

The log also reported that on April 16 the American freighter Charles R. McCormick was caught in a spray of machine-gun bullets that cut its mast stays and wire rigging.

A crew member identified as George Gilbert in an NBC radio broadcast from New York today said there could be no doubt that it was a British plane that fired on the Flying Fish, flying an American flag at the time, but he thought it was due to nervousness of the pilot.

"I attribute it to the plane pilot's nervousness," he said. "He raked our decks. Fortunately he wasn't using incendiary bullets. He had been flying over the land, dropping bombs, and was evidently going home when he spotted us. 'Come Over and Let Loose'."

He swerved, came over us and let loose with the bullets."

Captain Wollaston also described the destruction of a German cruiser and German supply ship by British bombers during the battle.

"When did you first learn that something was amiss?" Captain Wollaston was asked by the NBC announcer.

"About 2:30 a. m. on April 9." At that time, he said, the harbor master ordered a blackout. The crew, he said, "stood things well," but the population of Bergen was bewildered.

"Did the crew at any time leave the ship?"

"No."

McLean Judge is Confronted With Legal Maze Today

Bloomington, Ill., May 3—(AP)—A legal maze confronted Judge W. Radloff today in Circuit Court as he sought to discover the law's solution to a suit seeking to unseat Governor Henry Horner.

Before Judge Radloff was the mandamus suit filed by James McComb, a Chicago taxpayer, which would compel Lieut. Gov. John Stelle to assume the duties of governor on the allegation that Gov. Horner is incapacitated physically.

Also on file is a motion by Attorney General John E. Cassidy, answering in behalf both of Horner and Stelle, setting forth that the suit has no legal basis in fact because the court has no jurisdiction.

Then, to add more confusion to the situation, is Stelle's answer, filed by his private attorneys, disputing Cassidy's appearance in Stelle's behalf and asserting that the attorney general does not represent him.

Both Horner and Stelle accepted subpoenas in the suit by proxy. McComb's suit asked appointment of a medical commission to examine Horner and determine whether he is physically fit to carry on his duties. The suit alleged that others were actually performing Horner's duties and that both Horner and Stelle were liable to criminal penalty because Stelle refused to assume the duties of the governorship.

Dies Committee Seizure of 'Red' Papers Illegal

Philadelphia, May 3—(AP)—Federal Judge George A. Welsh ruled today that raids made on local offices of the communist party and the International Workers Order by agents of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities last month were illegal.

The ruling was made in dismissing a motion of counsel for the Dies agents and Magistrate Jacob Dogole which asked that a complaint by the communist party be thrown out.

The complaint, made by Carl Reeve, communist candidate for the U. S. Senate, and Frank Hellman, district organizer for the International Workers Order, charged that warrants issued by Dogole for the raids April 2 were illegal, and demanded return of confiscated records.

Judge Welsh deferred ruling on whether the confiscated material must be returned. The truckload of papers, membership rolls and other material was taken to Washington and later returned to Philadelphia, where it is now under police guard.

11-Page Opinion

In an 11-page opinion vigorously defending "civil liberties" of minorities, Judge Welsh held that the affidavit of George F. Hurley, a Dies agent, upon which the search warrants were issued, was "defective." The opinion said the affidavit was based entirely upon "information and belief" and not fact. Although the warrant was based upon an alleged violation of Pennsylvania's seditious law, Judge Welsh declared the raids in effect were a "federal procedure" and thus gave the federal courts jurisdiction.

The Dies agents contended the federal court was without jurisdiction because the seizure was made on a state warrant. Judge Welsh held that an individual's civil rights can be violated by seizure of records and property of a corporation when the individual is an officer in charge of them.

Bison's Stork Blocks Plans for Big Battle

Brookfield, Mo., May 3—(AP)—Say, what is this?

Brookfield's boisterously ballyhooed buffalo battle ran head on into the facts of life today. The city's Anti (horse) Thief Association may still sacrifice two animals to prove whether Dr. John T. Larney is more accurate with a spear than is Trucker Tycoon John Latta with a bow and arrow, but the event can no longer be billed as a "bull fight."

Ferdinand, largest of the two bison imported from Texas for the celebration, gave birth to a 100-pound calf today. Herman Carr, in charge of the animals, then disclosed the other Texas importee was also expecting.

It seems to be certain now that the fight—if it ever is held—will be delayed beyond May 25, originally scheduled date.

And it may never be held at all. The state Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had made a pretty strong campaign against the event before it was armed with this new argument.

Prevention and Cure of Gray Hair May Be Possible With New Vitamin

Madison, Wis., May 3—(AP)—Isolation of a vitamin which prevents and cures graying of hair in animals was announced today by a group of University of Wisconsin bio-chemists.

The scientists said they had not determined definitely whether the vitamin also would be effective in treating human beings seeking to maintain or restore the youthful color of their hair.

Experimental quantities of the pure vitamin were removed from liver by Drs. C. A. Elvehjem, Edward Neilsen and J. J. Oleson, who now are trying to determine its chemical structure as a step toward synthetic production, which would provide for more extensive experiments.

"There may be more than one cause for graying hair," Dr. Elvehjem said, "but at least in some animals one type of graying is caused by poor nourishment. If this holds true in man, then it is quite possible the vitamin may cure the trouble."

BISHOP STEWART, FAMED PREACHER, STRICKEN IN CAR

Pronounced Dead When Taken to Hospital; in Dixon Monday

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, 60, Bishop of the Chicago diocese of the Episcopal church and one of the outstanding clergymen of America, who spoke at a meeting of the Northern Illinois deanery at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Dixon last Monday, died of a heart ailment in Chicago last night.

He was stricken in his automobile while en route to a south side church to instruct a confirmation class. His chauffeur took him to Burnside hospital, where he was pronounced dead after a fire department rescue squad worked for 15 minutes to revive him.

Bishop Stewart was elected bishop coadjutor of the diocese in nine months later. For 25 years he was rector of St. Luke's church in Evanston, largest Episcopal parish in the west.

He was a member of the National Council of the church for the past 15 years and at the time of his death he headed the national commission on negro work.

Chaplain in War

During the World war he served as chaplain of evacuation hospital No. 6, American expeditionary forces in France. In 1927 he was a delegate from the Episcopal church in the United States to the Lausanne Conference on Faith and Order, and in 1937 was a delegate to a similar conference in Edinburgh.

Bishop Stewart was one of four American members of the base committee of the Utrecht conference on Church unity, held in May, 1938.

For years he had been considered one of the nation's outstanding preachers and was listed among the first 10 by several authorities.

Funeral Monday

Born Aug. 18, 1879, in Saginaw, Mich., Bishop Stewart was baptized and rear a Scotch Presbyterian. He became a Methodist minister in Chicago in 1898 and five years later was ordained in the Episcopal ministry.

He was survived by his widow and two sons, John Clyde and George Craig, Jr., of Chicago.

Bishop Stewart was associate editor of the Anglican Theological Review, trustee of Northwestern University, and president of the Board of Trustees of Seabury Western Theological Seminary. Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 11 A. M. at St. Luke's pro-cathedral in Evanston. The Very Rev. Gerald G. Moore, dean of the cathedral, said the body would lie in state in the cathedral from 6 P. M. today until the funeral, with a guard of honor of clergy and laity.

The standing committee of clergymen and laymen, of which Dean Moore is chairman, now constitutes the ecclesiastical authority of the diocese until election of a new bishop.

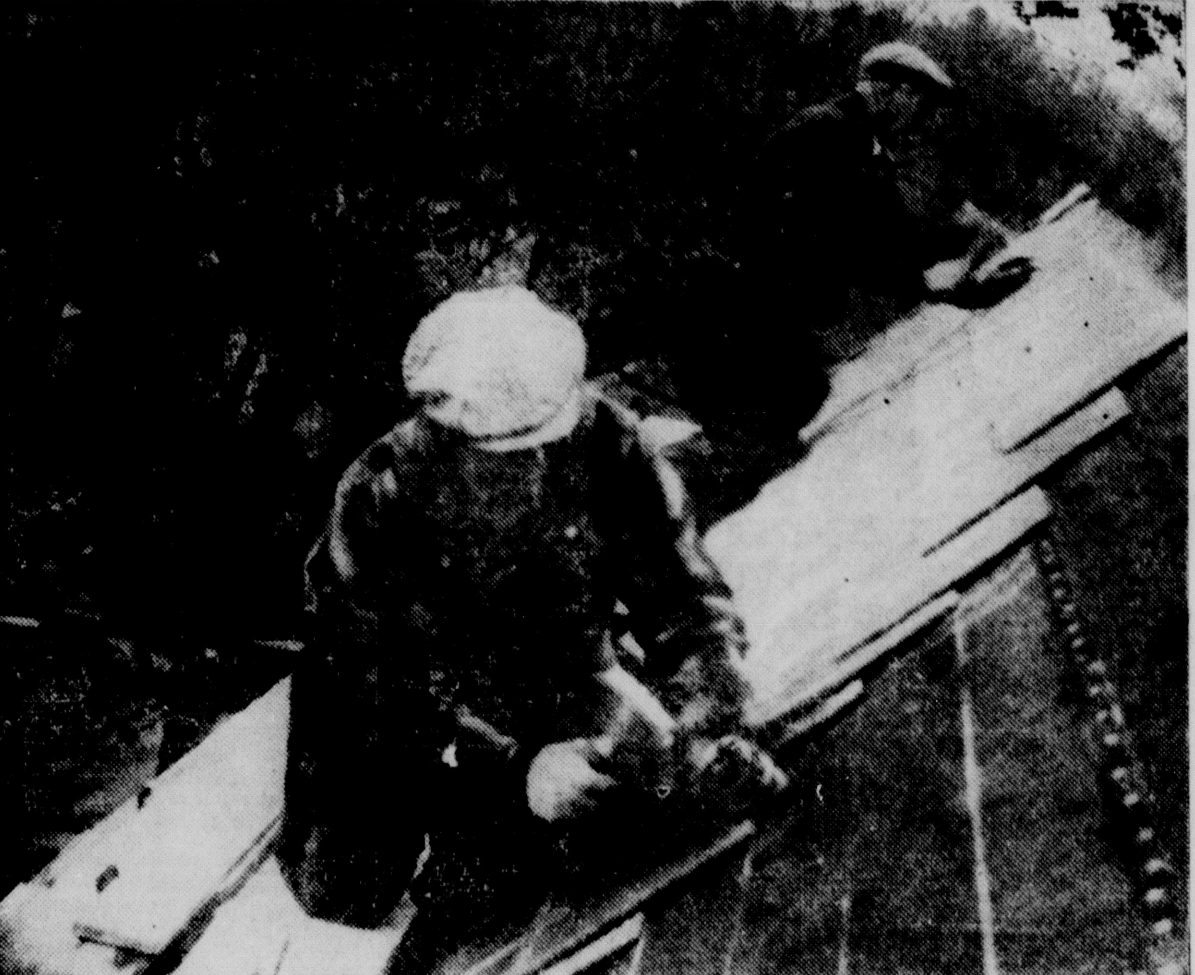

Baby Travels Alone on Streamline Train

Chicago, May 3—(AP)—A 17-month-old baby, separated from her mother when a train left Kansas City while the mother was in the station, traveled alone to Chicago today.

The mother, Mrs. John Hallinan, left the child in her berth on the Santa Fe Scout and ran into the station during a stop there last night. When she returned, the train had departed.

At midnight, the conductor of the Scout received a telegram from Mrs. Hallinan with directions for the train's courier nurse, Winifred Player, for caring for the child until the mother reached it.

Laying Only Roof of Its Kind in Dixon

Telegraph Photo

Highly skilled mechanics are shown above laying the roof of the Loveland Community building. Skill is required in laying the tile roof and the mechanics closely guard against striking the tile with hammer and rendering it useless through cracking or breakage.

Flat tile weighing 83 tons is being placed with copper nails. The main roof support is of two-inch tongue-and-grooved timbers upon which a thick coat of weather proofing material and a layer of weather proofed felt are applied before the tile is placed. The roof is the only one of its kind in Dixon.

on. The tile, a baked clay product, is about one-half inch thick and the handling from the ground to the roofers is an operation conducted with the utmost care to guard against breakage or cracking. Eleven kegs of copper nails, which are indestructible by weather, are being used in anchoring the sections of tiling.

Effort Made to Save Hatch Bill from Committee

Washington, May 3—(AP)—Rep. Dempsey (D-NM) filed in the house today a petition to wrest from the house judiciary committee a bill extending the so-called Hatch "clean politics" law. Of the required 218 signatures 70 were affixed in a short time.

Despite this action, however, Dempsey predicted that the house judiciary committee would be asked to reconsider its vote to pigeonhole the measure.

He intimated that a wrong count in the committee might have shelved the legislation.

The vote was taken in secret but was reported to have been 14 to 10 for tabling. Dempsey said 14 members had since told him that they voted not to table.

Administration Fearful

Administration leaders in the house, reportedly convinced that the membership wanted to go too far toward revising the wage-hour act, were said meanwhile to favor dropping the whole matter.

If the house did vote to send the amendatory legislation—which would exempt some operations now covered by the act—back to committee it effectively would kill it for the session.

The house committee investigating the labor board put into its record an assertion by a regional official of the board, Elvin J. Eagan of Seattle, that conditions approximating "fascism" existed in the Hawaiian islands three years ago. The Eagan report blamed conditions on what he called the "big five" companies in the islands.

Dempsey, announcing the filing of the Hatch petition, told the house it was not an ordinary discharge petition but would constitute a "roll of honor" because, he said, it would inform the people of the country which members of congress "are for clean politics."

Congress wound up four months of its election-year session today and headed into the adjournment stretch with little done and little

'Got Big Break'

Camden, N. J., May 3—(AP)—Gleefully proclaiming that he "got a big break," Peter Shewchuk, one-time carnival worker, headed for prison today to begin a life sentence for strangling 18-year-old Wanda Dworecki in a conspiracy hatched by her clergyman-father.

The Rev. Walter Dworecki, Polish Baptist minister, was electrocuted in March for hiring Shewchuk to kill the Auburn-haired girl last August so he could collect $2,500 insurance.

Twelve men jurors who heard the former circus roustabout from Chester, Pa., plead that he loved the girl like a sister, spared him a possible similar fate yesterday by recommending life imprisonment in a verdict convicting him of first-degree murder.

Mississippi's Governor and Editor Stage Free-for-All Scrap in Hotel

Jackson, Miss., May 3—(AP)—Governor Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi and Editor Frederick Sullens of the Daily News, bitter enemies for years, fought and rolled on the carpets of a crowded downtown hotel lobby last night until pulled apart.

Both emerged from the scrap bleeding, but neither apparently was hurt seriously. Sullens suffered head cuts which doctors stitched.

The 60-year-old governor, who retired immediately to the executive mansion, issued no statement but friends said on his behalf that Johnson "caned" Sullens because the editor "has harassed, persecuted and embarrassed the governor and his family" since 1931.

The 63-year-old editor said the governor, "surrounded by a bodyguard," hopped from around a hotel pillar and made a "coward-

Mediterranean Becomes Center of Attention as Allies Abandon Norway

The War Today!

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Developments in the strained relations between the Anglo-French allies and Italy during the past 48 hours strike me as constituting all but a direct invitation to Signor Mussolini to join nazidom in the war if it wants to.

I refer, of course, to Britain's clearing of its mercantile marine from the Mediterranean, and British Premier Chamberlain's startling announcement yesterday that the Anglo-French battle fleet was already in those waters, headed for Alexandria Bay.

One wouldn't go so far as to say that the allies are trying to push Mussolini into the war—though stranger things have happened. They may even hope that he will reconsider his position and perhaps ultimately cast his lot with them. In any event it is a call for a show-down.

Indications are, however, that they are quite willing to take him on at any time. It should be said here that I have no official back-

Herd of Cattle Holds Rocket to Snail's Pace

Spring Valley, Ill., May 3—(AP)—A herd of about 25 cattle chose to wander down the right-of-way of the Rock Island railroad last night, stopping the line's streamliner for the west coast, "The Rocket."

Fred Helwig, Spring Valley agent for the Chicago & North Western railroad, observed the animals on their stroll at about the time the train was due. Seizing a warning flare he chased them for a half-mile, but they remained along the tracks. Helwig then set the flare and the "Rocket" came to a stop within a few feet of the wandering cows.

But the cattle kept on plodding along, forcing the engineer to keep at a cow's pace for a mile into Green Valley, where a group of men finally shoed them off the tracks.

Dixonites Seek $10,000 From Illinois Central

Cora and Ralph Constock of Rochelle, represented by the law firm of Warner & Warner of this city, have filed a $10,000 damage suit against the Illinois Central Railway Company, a corporation, in Lee County Circuit court. The complaint contains seven counts, charging negligence upon the part of the defendant in the operation of its trains and the improper maintenance of the Seventh street crossing, north of the company's depot in Dixon.

The plaintiffs charge that between 6 and 8 o'clock on the evening of Nov. 17, 1939, the automobile in which they were occupants struck a freight train operated by agents for the defendant railroad company at the Seventh street crossing, as the result of which they sustained severe injuries. One count of the complaint charges that the defendant failed to maintain a crossing flagman at the time of the accident. A jury trial of the damage action is asked.

Berlin—Germany reports rapid "pacification" of Norway; one British transport and two submarines sunk; one allied cruiser severely damaged, Germans say.

Rome—Allied fleet movement eastward draws attention to Mediterranean; Italy outwardly unperturbed by naval activity.

London—Press and public withhold judgment on failure in Norway pending fuller accounts from Chamberlain and Churchill; enemy aircraft driven off English coast.

BULLETIN

Stockholm, May 3—(AP)—Dispatches from Grong, Norway, tonight, said that the Norwegian command had announced the conclusion of hostilities in the Grong area, east of Namsos, and the Norwegians' intention of negotiating peace with the Germans.

(By The Associated Press)
British forces and their French "Blue Devils" allies were reported today to have withdrawing from their front and landing place above as well as below Trondheim (OS) the German-held axis of the struggle for Norway. These advances indicated general withdrawal from Norway.

Reaching Stockholm through channels which normally are reliable, the reports said the allied forces in the Stensund-Namsos (Q9) sector 60 to 100 miles north of Trondheim had retreated and embarked on ships despite constant air-raids which killed 30 persons and wounded twice as many. The retreat, however, was described as orderly.

It was disclosed officially yesterday that the British had given up the lower front and departed from Andalsnes (M5) leaving to Germany control of half of Norway's territory, almost all its industrial centers and six-sevenths of its population.

If the reports of the Namsos withdrawal are true (the British maintained official silence on them), it means that all of Norway, with the exception of the allied siege lines around the Arctic ore port of Narvik, is abandoned by the British and French troops in the face of German air superiority and lightning ground action.

Germans Hold Narvik

French "Blue Devils" now are around Narvik. Germans hold the port.

In London, British spokesmen insisted the war would go on; that Britain has no idea of abandoning the Norwegian government or the campaign. But these spokesmen

Torsos of Three Persons Found in Railway Boxcars

Pittsburgh, May 3—(AP)—Disembodied bodies of three persons who might be the victims of the "mad butcher" blamed for 12 torso slayings in Cleveland were found today in the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad yards in nearby Stowe township.

Deputy Coroner Anthony Sappo said the word "nazi" had been carved on the chest of the third victim, found several hours after the discovery of the first two torsos. One was identified as that of a woman.

All were found in boxcars which arrived April 21 from Struthers, Ohio, 60 miles southeast of Cleveland and 15 miles from New Castle, Pa., where the torso of a young man was found October 13 in a swamp.

Sappo said the cars apparently had been sent to Struthers from Cleveland and re-routed to the Stowe township yards.

Dr. P. R. Heimbold, coroner's physician, said the bodies had been dissected by some one with a "knowledge of surgery" or a butcher. The bodies, he said, apparently were cut up with a butcher knife.

Heads of the victims were missing, but the arms and legs were found near the torsos. All were nude and there were no clues to the identity of the victims.

Illinoisans Do Well in Forensic Contests

Terre Haute, Ind., May 3—(AP)—Illinoisans competing in various events held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the National Forensic League are more than holding their own, a tabulation of results showed today.

One of the major awards was won yesterday by Kathleen Lawlor, of Freeport, Ill., who took first in the original oratory contest. Second place in this event also went to an Illinoisan, Richard Goodman of Lincoln, whose fellow townsman, Paul Larson, won a medal for outstanding performance in the same event.

The Lincoln forensic chapter was one of the runners-up in the annual Tau Kappa Alpha competition for outstanding speech achievement.

An Illinois representative suffered one set-back when Bristow, Okla., defeated DuQuoin in the semi-finals of the debating event.

the fascist territorial and political demands against England and France. These have been thrust forward persistently and belligerently.

Among other things Italy has clung to her claims to "living space", for colonization rights in French Tunisia, for a share in the Suez Canal, for a free port at Djibouti (gateway to Italian Ethiopia) and for the railway running from Djibouti into Ethiopia.

There have been indications at one time and another that the allies were prepared to adjust some of these claims. However, there has remained one great and unsolvable issue between the disputants—control of the Mediterranean.

As late as two weeks ago authoritative Italians insisted on Freedom from British and French control over the Mediterranean as Italy's chief aim.

Now you might talk John Bull into giving up his purse, but when you try to intrude on the tradition that Britannia rules the waves, and especially the Mediterranean waves, you are asking for trouble. The last thing England would be willing to concede would be domination of this strategic sea which controls so many of her great interests.

Along with this the allies have had to consider the relations between Italy and Spain. Ever since Mussolini backed Spanish Generalissimo Franco in the civil war, observers have speculated as to the possibility that Il Duce might get his reward in naval and air bases close to the gateway to the Mediterranean—a potential menace to both Britain and France. Denials by Spain and Italy that such a move was intended may have failed to remove anxiety.

If Italy should come into the war now these arguments could be settled once and for all. Actually the allies believe they could ham-string Italy by a blockade while the French army attacked from the north. That being the case, Germany would be deprived of valuable aid, for Italy undoubtedly is of more use to nazism as a non-belligerent than a combatant.

Greece and Turkey presumably would join the allies immediately. They fear Mussolini and his ambitions much more than they do any other man or state. I learned during my tour of the Balkans a little over a year ago. Their entrance into the war might open up that Balkan battle-front we have been hearing so much about, giving the allies a chance to attack Germany from the rear.

When you consider all aspects of the position it is easy to see why the allies may not be reluctant to take Italy on for a fight.

129th Infantry's Band is Separate Unit of Military

Culminating several years of persistent effort, the handful of bandmen who have ceaselessly striven to improve the condition of the bands of the regular army and national guard at last see the beginning of those changes which they so long have advocated. On May 1st by War Department orders, bands of the national guard ceased to be a sectional part of the service company, and become a separate and distinctive unit—an independent company of the regiment. Inasmuch as the band leader is now a warrant officer the band will be under the command of the regimental adjutant.

In the case of the 129th Infantry band, there will be no material changes made because it has been under the command of Captain Howard C. Bronson for several years. Captain Bronson occupies the unique position of regimental adjutant, band commander and conductor of this nationally famous military musical organization. His staff consists of Warrant Officer Lee I. Douglas, Technical Sergeant Fred D. Mills, Staff Sergeant Horace Hedgcock, Sergeant Robert Middlekauff, John Goucher, Paul Boynton Gilbert Silvius and Corporals Carlton Staben and Robert Mattison.

Captain Bronson is national president of the United States Army and Navy Bandsmen's Association, the organization which is largely responsible for the changes now being made in the administration of army bands.

PROOF EARTH IS ROUND

Four observable proofs that the earth is round are: During an eclipse of the moon, the earth's shadow on the moon is round; men have traveled around the earth; the sinking from view of ships as they sail away to sea; and as we travel southward, stars in the north sink toward the horizon, and new ones come into view in the southern skies.

Suspended State Policeman Found Guilty of Theft

Chicago, May 3—(AP)—John Howe, Jr., a suspended state policeman, was free on a $20,000 bond today following his conviction on a 10-year-old robbery charge.

A criminal court jury, which disregarded an insanity plea, deliberated 45 minutes yesterday before finding that Howe was guilty of robbing a store of $36.69 on Oct. 16, 1930.

A defense motion for a new trial was set for May 14 and Howe's release on bond was ordered. Punishment for the offense is one year to life in prison.

Counsel for the former policeman hinged defense arguments on a plea that their client was insane at the time of the crime but was sane now.

When Howe was tried on the robbery charge in 1930 he was adjudged insane and was committed to the Kankakee state hospital. The charge was contained in one of three indictments returned against him. The indictments were stricken, with leave to reinstate, after Howe was sent to the hospital.

Two months following his commitment, Howe escaped and in 1936 joined the state police force. A charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice was lodged against him last January after he was accused of attempting to bribe a juror in a vote-fraud trial. During the subsequent investigation his record was disclosed, the old indictments were reinstated and he was suspended from the police force.

Trial of the conspiracy charge, on which several others also were indicted, has been set for June 5.

Otto Schades Conclude Travel Club's Season

A celluloid trip through Egypt, India and Bali was a fascinating itinerary offering for members of the Foreign Travel club last evening. Dr. and Mrs. Z. W. Moss were entertaining at their hospitable home, "Whitthorne," and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schade of Ashton presented the travelogue, which concludes the club's program for the season.

While Mr. Schade operated the projection apparatus, Mrs. Schade supplemented the pictures with an informal lecture; found time to whisk records on and off the couple's newly-acquired music box, when music was needed to enhance the effect of Balinese dancing scenes; and presented six feminine members of the club in a miniature style show by way of good measure. Altogether, it was an eventful evening for the club members, whose common denominator of interest is globe wandering.

During their travels, (which took them around the world in five months' time), the Schades viewed the ancient glory of the Egyptian pyramids and Sphinx; tasted bird's nest soup in China; saw a 130-year-old Brahman priest at Delhi; were amazed to discover a sewing machine of a well-known American make in a crowded shop in Calcutta; spent some time in Benares the holy city of the Hindus; traveled several miles up the sacred Ganges river, observing burning ghats and bathing ghats; were spectators at a death struggle between a mongoose and a deadly reptile; visited the Taj Mahal; and were granted the privilege of making a celluloid record of the famous Djaner dance, a sort of musical comedy based on mythology.

Help Guard Panda
Although India is credited with one-third of the world's cattle population, the Schades found it impossible to secure a good steak. They met Anna Louise Strong, who wrote "China's Millions," and whom Mrs. Schade described as "a Communist—and proud of it"; and became acquainted with Mrs. Ruth Harkness, whose traveling companion was the mischievous and lovable panda, Mei-Mei, successor to Su-Lin at the Brookfield zoo. On several occasions, Mrs. Harkness asked for the Ashton couple's assistance in "keeping an eye on" Mei-Mei—a task they regarded as both a pleasure and privilege.

The Schades took their audience to Cairo by way of Port Said, crossroads and turnstile of the world, and once regarded as the world's wickedest city. Cairo itself, with its mixed population, intermingling of East and West, red fez, turbans and flowing black veils, gilded domes and minarets, was described as "rising like a dream city out of the desert with an air of mystery that for centuries has baffled the whole world."

Ships of the Desert
Camel caravans were flashed upon the screen, carrying melons, corn, coconuts, rice, dates and

At Panchganga ghat, the couple saw numerous bamboo poles with light in baskets at the top of the poles. Any family may fix a light there which will burn one month—the idea being that when a person dies, there will be a light for him in heaven.

The Seven Pagodas, the club members were told, were built in 625 by the greatest king of southern India, are replicas in miniature of the seven great architectural types, and are one of the seven wonders of the ancient world. Each Pagoda is made of one enormous granite stone.

Visit Taj Mahal
"The earth does not offer a more beautiful expression of love and devotion than the Taj Mahal," Mrs. Schade affirmed. The structure contains delicate interlacing carvings, beautiful inlay and mosaics ornamented with precious jewels, and in the moonlight, the dome gleams like silver.

Happy Bali, with its temples, brown bodies, grotesque idols, lush-green rice paddies, fluttering of fingers and fan, and fighting cocks, brought the colorful itinerary to an end.

There the Schades found religion everywhere, with the natives professing Hinduism, Buddhism and believing in a host of evil spirits. Dances are performed upon a sacred spot, beneath a holy Banyan tree or near an altar, because dances form part of the worship of Shiva, the supreme god in Bali. Music is played by Gamelan Gong, a Balinese orchestra, composed of the gong, the kendang finger drum, the trompong, rows of metal pots, and the gangsa, a series of metal plates arranged like a xylophone. The music has an enticing ring, sometimes restful and sweet, sometimes swelling to a passionate cadence.

And as the silver screen projected the Barong dance, a drama in which two actors impersonate a monstrous animal; Legong dance, one of the oldest Balinese dances performed by two young girls who from childhood have been trained to this end and who discontinue the performance when about 12 years of age; and the Djaner, a modern dance, Mrs. Schade played records of the intricate rhythms being woven by the orchestra in the picture.

Cock Fights
"Cock-fighting is popular and the betting is heavy," Mrs. Schade commented. "The village priest is the chief umpire. When a child is born, the father assumes new dignity. For nine months, he may not smoke opium, throw dice, or worst of all, attend a cock-fight."

Mrs. H. A. Lazier, Mrs. Z. Glatzer, Miss Dorothy Hurst, Miss Katherine Wright, Miss Grace O'Malley and Miss Alice Richardson were Mrs. Schade's mannequins for the style show. They were modeling the collection of kimono purchased by the couple in Japan, and a "happy coat," a satin-lined garment worn over kimono, owned by Mrs. Harry Bates.

The bridge-dinner given last evening by the Misses Bettie Haines and Leone Kreim was by way of another pre-nuptial courtesy for Miss Betty Nichols, fiancée of Richard A. McNicol. Dinner at Peter Piper's was followed by bridge games at the Haines home.

Earrings are important again. Some of the newest clip on at the top of the ear, or, if you wish to be unique, clip one earring in the lobe of one ear, and one at the top of the other ear. Almost any type of earring is good—jewel-encrusted pieces that fit the curve of the ear itself, pendant gypsy rings, button earrings of gold or pearl or colored stones, earrings that have matching necklaces and bracelets—but it is important to choose types that will become your fashion types.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Italy and the War

The common assumption that Italy will go to war on the side of the probable victor—as soon as the probability of victory is established—may be entirely false.

One thing that has kept observers making wrong guesses as to the present war is that they are mentally fighting the World War over again. They see too many things in the light of 1914. It should be emphasized that this is not the World War, but the next war. That has been ignored to a large extent by allied tacticians and for that reason they find themselves in deep water. Germany, being disarmed in 1919, began preparing for the next war. The allies started defending themselves from the last war.

The guesses as to Italy's future conduct may be as erroneous as the guesses of those who expected Germany, at the outbreak of present hostilities, to march immediately against Belgium. We venture to guess that not one military observer in a thousand, or perhaps a million, would have expected Germany to be in Norway before striking at Belgium. No one could foresee that possibility because no one knew Russia and Germany were going to join hands.

In the last war Turkey was an ally of the Germans. Today Turkey claims to lean toward the allies in benevolent neutrality. The Turkish position, it is probable, will have some effect upon Mussolini's plans. When Benito knows what Turkey is going to do, he may then be able to decide his own course.

The business of waiting to hop onto the band wagon is entirely too gross, too patent, even for a man like Benito. If he waits until Germany or the allies have almost won the war he would not be welcomed as a participant, nor rewarded at the conference. His position would be stronger if he should wait until one side was almost defeated, and then strike a tremendous blow, with every ounce of power he has, in favor of the losing side so as to turn defeat into victory. That would make him a savior of humanity and all that sort of stuff.

Another guess is possible here. There are certain things Benito wants—Tunisia, Corsica, Nice and Savoy—plus anything else that may be lying loose. These are held or controlled by England and France. But if Benito goes after them, he may not go as an ally of Germany, but as an ally of Italy. He may simply take what he can while the allies and Germany are too preoccupied to stop him or help him.

This may explain some of the utterances in Italy today. If Germany were holding Tunisia, Corsica, Nice and Savoy, Benito's press would be thundering at the Germans instead of against the allies.

None of these guesses may be accurate, but we try to be realistic. We try to keep emotion out of it. Only a short time back emotionalists were saying dictators had to have wars in order to keep their power. Today the emotionalists are saying Benito doesn't dare to go to war, lest he lose his job. And they are the same people, in many instances.

The other dictator who didn't want a war was Adolf. Nothing would make him happier than an opportunity to grab without paying the price.

Adaptable Man

Man is infinitely adaptable. He has had to be, else he would not have lasted through all the miseries he has brought upon himself through the centuries.

He gets used to war, as he gets used to anything else. The first aid raid causes panic. The second causes alarm. But the 19th merely means scuffle underground and wait. It becomes a bore.

Little flashes of this human trait emerge from the panorama of war. It is not easy to forget the picture of a British submarine crew which had torpedoed a German ship in the Kattegat. Destroyers rushing to the scene, began furiously dropping depth bombs as the sub "crash-dived" and lay on the bottom waiting for annihilation that might come at any moment.

What did the crew do as they waited through those moments freighted with life or death? They played cards.

An Echo Dies Away

Vienna has been dead a long time. The Vienna, that is, of song and story, the pleasant, easy-going, tolerant city of waltzes and wine. It suffered a mortal wound in the World War. It died when the Nazi troops marched in.

So it seemed strange the other day to read that Victor Leon has also just died there. He wrote lyrics a whole world sang, to Lehár's tunes of "The Merry Widow."

But Leon was Jewish, and so his property had been confiscated, his last years were lived out in desperate poverty. It was an ill return from a world to which he had given much joy.

Excerpt from the Congressional Record:
MR. COCHRAN: The gentleman is a great constitutional lawyer.

MR. HOFFMAN: No, that is a mistake. I do not want to be charged with something I do not make any pretense of being, because there is no such thing now as a constitutional lawyer. As Justice Frankfurter recently stated, the Constitution is what the court says it is. That was in his first decision. We do not know what the Constitution is from day to day, or from Monday to Monday.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, May 3.—A new reform program for a third new deal—in case Mr. Roosevelt is reelected in person or through a proxy—has been worked out in preliminary detail by the official administration thinkers.

It may be described as the unwritten platform of 1940. Basis of it will be found chiefly in the intricate and generally unnoticed National Economic Committee investigation. For months administration guiding spirits (Eccles, Henderson, Currie, Cohen, Lubin, et al.) have been pouring out their prepared evidence of defects in the economic system into the committee reservoir. Remedies they have in mind have either been mentioned directly or suggested by the nature of their evidence.

Main planks laid down there and in speeches by the leading government economists at public and private dinner parties are these:

Break up big business—Expand the principle of the public utilities holding company act to other pyramidal layers of corporations in all industries. The purpose primarily is to destroy the leadership or non-competitive price fixing systems. This is planned to be done by new legislation stiffening the statute against inter-corporate dividends and by strengthening the justice department's anti-trust controls.

The eyes of the reformers are clearly on such industries as International Harvester Company, United States Steel, American Can, and American Telephone & Telegraph, all of which have been pointed out in TNEC evidence.

Further Halt Bigness.—By putting a clamp on its breadbasket, its financial reserves. To do this, revival of the undistributed profits tax in a new form is being advocated half openly. Such a course is to be recommended to the TNEC by the commerce department as a "progressive and liberal" re-employment measure. Economists of that department are now spreading the motive tax doctrine in private addresses.

Firm government regulation of insurance companies and investment trusts.—The Wagner-Lea bill already introduced, discloses the purpose of limiting the size of investment trusts. Open end trusts would be put for instance under a $150,000,000 ceiling (largest open end trust is now working at about $120,000,000). Similar regulatory legislation has been recommended to limit the financial power of insurance companies in handling their huge invested reserves. No pre-conceived method has been mentioned but the TNEC is leaning toward putting insurance companies more on a pay-as-you-go basis which might open the way for a reduction of premiums.

Unfreezing the savings in banks as well as investment trusts by similar blow torch methods. One group wants a state socialist bank to provide small business and other loans by siphoning money from savings. Others favor new gigantic made-work programs which would drain off savings, either by voluntary investment or a compulsory tax on savings accounts. The tax on savings has been mentioned by Chairman Eccles of Federal Reserve in a speech. His group is the one which Emmett F. Connelley, head of the Investment Bankers Association, was hitting at in his speech charging "a government group wants to tax savings."

Legislation against technological displacement of workers in industry.—Specially appointed by the new O'Mahoney bill which is supposed to be backed by CIO, but not by the administration groups yet. It proposes a tax of industrial machines to pay workers displaced.

Continued spending.—Particularly in a new housing program for rural slums clearance. Reorganization of fiscal policies to provide more money for spending through a changed tax structure and extra-budgetary corporations.

These are a few of the new eggs of a third new deal. They may not all be hatched as laid. It is equally true that other eggs equally important with these representative few can reasonably be expected if a new popular mandate is obtained. But at least these few now noticeable represent the known and probable elements of the new reform program behind the third new deal.

MRS. ANNA MEURER

(Contributed)

At the age of 77 years, two months and 20 days, Mrs. Anna Meurer died at the home of her son, George Meurer of Amboy, early Thursday morning, April 25, after a two weeks' illness. Mrs. Meurer was born on February 5, 1863, at Grandenborn, in the province of Hessen-Cassel, Germany. She is the last of a family of six children. Her youngest brother preceded her in death only two weeks ago.

In early infancy she was dedicated to the Lord in Holy Baptism. After having attained the proper age, and having completed the prescribed course of religious instruction in the fundamental teachings of Holy Writ, she was publicly confirmed in the saving doctrines of the Bible, by which rite she became a communicant member of the Lutheran church, remaining true to her vow until the end.

In the year 1887, when Mrs. Meurer was about three years of age, she came with her parents to America, arriving in Franklin Grove on the 24th day of June that same year. The family at first made their home in Lee Center where they lived for a period of two years after which they moved to a farm northwest of Amboy.

On October 13, 1886, she was united in marriage with John Meurer of Amboy who departed this life on July 6, 1937. This union was blessed with two children, both of whom survive.

Mrs. Meurer was a woman who enjoyed fair health and was quite active until about two years ago when she suffered a severe heart attack, from which she never fully regained her usual strength. Two weeks ago she became bedfast because of another heart attack. What medical skill and kind care could do was done, but to no avail. She quietly fell asleep on Thursday morning, April 25, 1940 at about 8 o'clock.

She leaves to mourn her passing the following: two children, George Meurer of Amboy and Mrs. Henry Schaefer of Dixon; six grandchildren, Russell and Carl Meurer, Dorothy, Bernice, Donald and Richard Schaefer; two great grandchildren, a host of other relatives and a large circle of friends.

Guard Found Dead in Car: Murder, Suicide

Chicago, May 3.—(AP)—A pretty young model and a House of Correction guard were found shot to death today in a parked automobile, apparently victims of murder and suicide.

Salvatore De Grazio, 47, a guard for 19 years, had a wound in the right cheek, Mrs. Joyce Evans, 26, who had been separated from her husband, was shot in the right forehead. A .32-calibre pistol lay on the seat between them. The car motor was running and the lights lit.

Police Lieutenant Daniel Healy theorized that Mrs. Evans had killed the guard and herself.

Healy said the woman's mother, Mrs. Ferd Ward recalled that her daughter, speaking of De Grazio recently, said, "If I can't have him, I can't live, and neither can he."

Illino's Average Old

Age Pension is $20.54

Springfield, Ill., May 3.—(AP)—More than half of the 139,000 persons on Illinois' old age pension rolls were reported today to have received increases in their awards in the last two years because of changes in their physical or financial condition.

Fletcher C. Kettle, state superintendent of old age assistance, placed at 75,000 the number of pension recipients whose awards have been raised "according to their needs and economic conditions." Most of the increases, he said, were to provide medical care. Reductions were made in 16,000 other cases.

The state's average pension payment, now $20.54 monthly, may soon be further increased by the legislature which has pending in its special session bills to raise the maximum grant from $30 to $40 monthly.

Negro Sees John Lewis, CIO Most Dangerous in U. S.

Washington, May 3.—All but buried by the tumult of House debate over what changes to make in the wage-hour law was a speech by Representative Mitchell (D-Ill.), the only Negro member of Congress, deploring communistic activities among his race.

The speech was short. Mitchell had just one minute in which to address the House. But the House listened with interest. What he said was:

"Subversive influences are at work among the Negroes. Communists are trying to disrupt the good feelings between the two races in this country. Designing white men are trying to use the Negro as a tool against the government."

Mitchell denounced such efforts, along with a resolution of the National Negro Congress which said that if this government should become involved in war against Russia Negroes would not fight.

And he concluded: "I wish to go on record as thoroughly disapproving the appeal made to the Negro at this National Negro Congress by the labor leader, John L. Lewis. It is my opinion that John L. Lewis is the most dangerous, outstanding leader in America today, and it is his desire to change our form of government and to establish a dictatorship in America."

Alleged Rum Runners

Muskogee, Okla., May 3.—(AP)—Photographs snapped secretly by Federal agents furnished important evidence leading to indictment of 169 persons on charges of conspiring to transport liquor into dry Oklahoma, a United States district attorney said today.

District Attorney C. A. Summers said the agents first took pictures of trucks and speedy coupes being loaded with "lugs" (packages) of liquor in neighboring wet states, then followed through with photographs of the same vehicles on trips into Oklahoma.

Names of those indicted yesterday were withheld pending their arrest.

Chicago Insurance Men

New President U. S. C. C.

Washington, May 3.—(AP)—James Scott Kemper of Chicago, who manages six insurance companies and finds time to be active in Republican politics as well, today took over the presidency of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

He was elected by the chamber's board of directors yesterday at the close of the 28th annual meeting of the business men's organization.

Kemper, 53, believes the country would be better off if business men took a more active part in politics. Setting his fellows an example, he has been a delegate to the Republican national convention several times and is a delegate again this year.

GIANTS IN STRIDE DOWN CARDINALS ON OWN GROUNDS

Southpaw Melton Twirled Air-tight Ball in Relief Role

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
It doesn't pay to become too enthusiastic about a baseball club winning one game. In fact, no one knows right now whether it's worthwhile getting excited about a team winning nine games—even in a row.

Yet a glance at the National League standings today will show anybody interested that the New York Giants are in third place and a thought about the manner in which they subjugated the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-4, yesterday might convince some that they may stay there.

The Giants this year have one of those "extremist" teams. The veterans are too old and the rookies are too young. But the greybeards are full of wisdom and the no-heads are filled with enthusiasm and the right mixture can be powerfully explosive.

Making a delayed start against their first western opposition of the season the Giants got 14 hits yesterday. Mel Ott hit a homer with one on, Mickey Vitek hit a round-tripper inside the park. Harry Danning smacked two doubles and two singles and so on.

In addition, they had one of the best jobs of relief pitching any team in the big leagues has received this season. Lefty Cliff Melton took charge with none out in the third and proceeded to hurl for six innings giving up only two hits.

In the past five games the Giants have amassed a total of 55 hits. They have proven pitching strength. And aside from dropping three games to the Brooklyn Dodgers during the red-hot streak of the latter, they have lost only one game this spring.

As pointed out, the balance between age and youth on the club isn't good enough to make it a pennant contender, but the way they mauled those Cardinals yesterday shows they have the stuff fans expect of a first-division club. There's not likely to be anybody in front of the Giants except the fellows who are fighting for the flag.

Bad weather washed out all but two of the major league contests yesterday. In the other game the Detroit Tigers downed the Washington Senators, 5-3, on the sixth hit hurling of an 18-year-old rookie, Hal Newhouse. Rudy York helped with his first home-run of the season with one on in the second and also smacked a triple that didn't figure in the scoring.

This put the Tigers hot on the heels of the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians, who are tied for the lead in the American League.

Rochelle High Golf Team Defeats Polo

Rochelle high school golf team scored a 10½ to 4½ victory over Polo Thursday afternoon on the wind-swept Rochelle Town and Country club course. V. Degryse of Rochelle turned in the best score of the match, a 78.

Results of the match follow: Degryse (R) defeated Smith (P), nine up (3-0); Hoover (P) defeated V. Stevenson (R), four up (3-0); W. Beck (R) defeated Ames (P), four up (3-0); P. May (R) and Crull (P) tied (1-2-1-2); R. Motlong (R) defeated Quaco (P) five up (3-0).

Garland of Roses

Louisville, Ky., May 3—(AP)—To amiable, chunky Andy Phillips, negro handyman for stewards at Churchill Downs, the most important job after tomorrow's Kentucky Derby will be wrapping that 6-foot-8-inch garland of roses around the neck of the winning horse.

"Ya gotta toss 'em on easy-like," Andy explained. "Lots of hosses get skittish and try to shy away in all that crowd. Ya gotta make sure ya don't stir 'em up too much."

Andy has been performing this little ritual since Twenty Grand won the Derby in 1931.

Preparation of the garland requires considerable care. The roses—500 of them—are fashioned into a blanket so deftly that not a protruding end or rough surface touches the horse.

There's Always Chance Leaders in A. B. C. Can Be Ousted Near Finish

Detroit, May 3—(AP)—It probably won't happen, but there is ample precedent for a last-minute upset which would beat the Chicago Monarchs out of the American Bowling Congress team title.

With less than a week to go, the Monarchs are firmly established on top of the five-man listings with a score of 3,047—lower than the winning figure of the past four years, but 44 pins better than any other team has been able to do in the current 62-day tourney.

Yet on more than one occasion leaders have been toppled at the eleventh hour. The Chicago Arnolds were all ready to pocket the prize money in 1921 at Buffalo when the Saunders team of Toronto nosed them out while rolling on the final shift of the tournament. A rally in the closing hours boosted the Wolfe Tires of Niagara Falls, N. Y., into the title four years ago over the Detroit Tivolis.

When the A. B. C. was held here in 1932 the Jefferson Clothiers of Dayton, Ohio, pulled a surprise victory just before the finish to oust the Milwaukee Verifines from the lead.

Yesterday's firing did nothing to disturb the leaders. The Heck Ross Clothiers of Des Moines, Iowa posted the high team score—2,826—and Hermann Schettler and Bill Diffey of Salt Lake City, were high in the doubles on a count of 1,235.

Sprinters After Record

Minneapolis, May 3—(AP)—A new world's 3,000-meter record is the goal of three outstanding distance runners in a special exhibition race in Memorial stadium here Saturday afternoon.

In the race will be Taisto Maki, the Finnish ace, who may be primed for his best effort since invading the United States to raise funds for his war-torn home country. Greg Rice, the former Notre Dame star, and Walter Mehl, University of Wisconsin ace.

Maki has trained down to 140 pounds, his best running weight. The present world record for the 3,000 meter event, 8 minutes, 14.8 seconds, is held by Gunner Hockert of Finland.

LIGHTWEIGHT BOUT AT LOUISVILLE TO DETERMINE CHAMP

N. B. A. Will Recognize Winner of Match to Fill Ambers' Position

Louisville, Ky., May 3—(AP)—Sammy Angott and Davey Day, who came up from the ranks of the amateurs, tangle tonight for the world's lightweight boxing championship—as the national boxing association sees it.

In the eyes of the N. B. A. and its 41 affiliated state associations, the winner will succeed Lou Ambers, whose lightweight title the N. B. A. declared forfeited because he declined to defend it within the prescribed six-month period.

Matchmaker Vern Franklin, announcing advance sales had been boosted to $10,000 by out-towners here for tomorrow's Kentucky Derby, predicted a record crowd of 12,000 would pay approximately $34,000—at a $5.75 top—to see the 15-round scuffle.

Day, a former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, and Angott, who was an amateur battler in Washington, Pa., before he adopted Louisville as his home, have met twice before. Angott won a split decision in 10 rounds and Day triumphed by a similar verdict in 12.

Sam Plan, Day's manager, figures the longer distance will favor his fighter. Plan even went so far as to predict a knockout for Day, whose right carries a well known kind of dynamite.

Angott and his manager, Charley Jones, scarcely are hopeful of a knockout, but they think Sammy's two-fisted attack will give Day a going over he won't forget.

They're scheduled to enter the ring at 10 p. m. (C. S. T.)

A third fight principal is the Old Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey, assigned to serve as both referee and sole judge of the bout. The rival managers agreed to dispense with the customary two-judge system.

Beloit Relay Carnival Is on Despite Weather

Beloit, Wis., May 3—(AP)—Despite recent adverse weather conditions, Beloit College officials prepared to run off the fourth annual Beloit relay carnival this afternoon and tonight.

Athletic Director Louis E. Means said that 370 athletes representing 29 midwestern colleges had entered.

Rain and snow have slowed up the track, on which Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske hoped to better the world record for the three-quarter mile in a special placed race.

Trials are scheduled for the afternoon, with finals under the floodlights tonight.

Coe College of Cedar Rapids, Ia., twice winner of the relay crown, remains the favorite to capture the team title again, with Grinnell, Knox, Beloit and Lawrence rated the principal contenders.

The program includes eight relays, six field events and two special races. Entered in the special mile run are Gilbert Dodd of Ashland (O.) College; Virgil Grace of Yankton (S. D.) and Bob Hartman, Beloit's Midwest Conference champion.

Bulbs Balk Baseball

Erwin, Tenn., May 3—(AP)—Exploding light bulbs—instead of snow, floods, rain or cold weather—caused postponement of an Appalachian league game between Erwin and Johnson City last night.

A cold drizzle of rain began bursting the heated bulbs, which lighted the field. After the seventh one popped, Business Manager Harry Morgan stopped the game in the second inning, explaining:

"Those things cost over five bucks apiece!"

SEVEN STARTERS WILL ACCOMPANY BIMMY AT DERBY

Prospects for Cold and Rainy Weather Will Hurt Attendance

Louisville, Ky., May 3—(AP)—Col. Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech, odds-on favorite for tomorrow's 66th running of the Kentucky Derby, was the first entry for the race dropped in the box when the racing secretary's office opened today at Churchill Downs.

The second entry in the box was that of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadon, with Carroll Bierman the jockey to ride him in tomorrow's big race.

The next two in the entry box were Sirocco, from the stable of Charles T. Fisher, of the Fisher Body family of Detroit and Royal Man, mud-running colt owned by Harold S. Clark of Miami Beach, Fla.

Next in line came the unexpected entry of M. J. Schmitt, Louisville lawyer, for his Transmute colt, True Star.

Sixth entry was that of Charles S. Howard's Midland, Oregon-bred colt.

Supposed to Win

The entry list jumped to seven when the name of Roman, Joseph E. Widener's Sir Gallahad III colt, was filed.

Arnold Hanger's Dit, winner of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica last week, came next.

Operating on the theory that "the last one in the entry box is the first one home in the race," Lou Schaefer, the likeable little trainer and ex-jockey, waited until 20 minutes before closing time for entries to drop the name of his Maryland-bred colt, Pictor, into the box.

Bimelech is supposed to win hands down, and it would not be truthful to state that the air of Louisville is charged with excitement. The thousands of visitors who are charging about the hotel lobbies are pretty well charged, certainly, but not with excitement.

It is much as it was a year ago, when Johnstown was so obviously the class of the field. Everybody is preparing to go out and warble "My Old Kentucky Home" and generally get very sentimental, but nobody seems to think it will be much of a horse race.

No Record Crowd

The weather is very unpleasant—cold and rainy—and gives promise of getting worse before it improves. Tomorrow's crowd, as a sensible result, may not be a record one.

This is painful to the management, including the Downs boss, Col. Matt Winn, because they have made extensive additions to the clubhouse since last year.

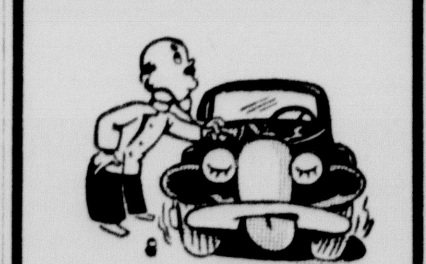

The price that Bimelech will pay—providing, of course, that the Bradley thoroughbred wins on schedule—likely will be the legal minimum in this state, which is 10 cents on the dollar. That is, the man who buys a $200 ticket on the "big boss" is sure of getting back $20, providing he wins.

Col. E. R. Bradley, who owns the super-favorite, hasn't been in such good health down at Lexington. Nevertheless, there is a report going the rounds that he intends to defy his physicians and come up for the race. The Colonel has seen four of his horses win the Derby, and they say he is determined to watch Bimelech make it five.

Mudders Have Chance

The only thing that might pull the management out of the hole on Bimelech is plenty of rain. Should it come down tonight,

DIXON ELKS TO BOWL AT SPRINGFIELD

Dixon lodge, No. 779, B. P. O. Elks will send a five man team to Springfield Friday, May 17 to roll in the annual Illinois Elks association tournament, it was announced today. Grand Exalted Ruler H. C. Warrar is the sponsor of the team which will be composed of members of the Dixon lodge.

Elks who have been members of bowling teams rolling on the Dixon Recreation alleys during the season just closed will compose the team. Individual bowlers with the highest averages for the season on the Recreation alleys were considered in the team selection. The team members will appear in the singles, doubles and five man team events and the entries were forwarded to Springfield today.

The Dixon Elks team will be composed of the following bowlers: Frank J. Daschbach, Lawrence Poole, Floyd Smith, Dr. R. R. Dwyre and Joe Miller. Several other bowlers, members of the local lodge plan to accompany the team and attend the annual state convention.

steadily, and the track becomes really muddy tomorrow, a lot of patrons will shop around for a horse that might beat him. For some reason there always is doubt that a favorite can run in the mud, though Bimelech has won two of his races in fairly heavy going.

A scattered few expressed the opinion that Midland, the west coast horse, might spring a surprise and run right away from Bimelech down the stretch. Midland undoubtedly is the "dark horse," and there might be a good bit of money bet on him.

Long Shots Get Play

Some are going to take a chance on Dit, the gelding that won the Wood Memorial in New York last week, and a few will take a long shot on W. L. Brann's Pictor.

But, mostly, the crowd will stamp its feet to regain circulation, blow on its hands and pour the money into the windows on Bimelech.

Gallahadon, Roman and Royal Man, the other three considered starters in the big race, mostly will come in for place and show bets.

The owner of the winner will receive more than $60,000, which is nice money.

PARI-MUTUELS BARRED

Louisville, Ky., May 3—(AP)—Pari-mutuel betting will be taboo at the Grand Circuit harness races to be held at the Kentucky state fair September 9-14.

The state fair board said today that betting through the machines had been voted down for fair week when Grand Circuit racing will be inaugurated here.

Betting is by pari-mutuels at Churchill Downs, where the Kentucky Derby will be run tomorrow.

Wrestlers at Play

Abe Pickus—He Tells 'Em

Tragedy

Here's Abraham Pickus, of Cleveland, Ohio, at his favorite sport of calling European big shots by trans-Atlantic phone to tell them how to solve their problems. Pickus is smiling at the 15 reporters, 16 photographers and assorted press agents who watched him when he recently tried to reach Mussolini to tell him he'd be "better off if he didn't talk war all the time."

Weatherman Can't Find Any Seasonable Weather

Chicago, May 3—(AP)—Forecaster Gordon Dunn promised fair weather for the north-central region by tomorrow but said that even with gradual moderation of the temperatures it would remain cool.

The rain and snow that pelted Great Lakes states Wednesday and yesterday has moved eastward. Its center was east of Detroit today and the disturbance was decreasing in intensity.

A ridge of high pressure, with clear skies, extended today from Minnesota southward to the western Gulf of Mexico. Temperatures were 10 to 20 degrees below seasonal normals from the Mississippi valley eastward through the Appalachians.

Benidji, Minn., reporting a low of 25, was the coldest place in the nation early today. Mid-west temperatures ranged from that mark to 48 at Cairo, Ill.

EXPERTS STUDY CENSUS

Washington, May 3—(AP)—An average population gain of about nine per cent was noted today in a survey of tentative census returns from 42 cities and towns, but five showed decreases from 1930.

Although census officials said that present figures were too scanty to permit forecasts of trends, sociologists have been predicting that the growth of cities was being reversed and that suburbs and rural areas were growing.

Efforts Made—

With the exception of a prolonged battle over the politically important legislation continuing the administration's reciprocal trade program, many members have been content to limit action to routine appropriations bills. President Roosevelt has requested virtually no new legislation.

Political sniping has filled the frequent gaps between major bills, and some lawmakers predict even more campaign talk before the tentatively-scheduled June 8 adjournment.

Faces Crucial Test
Nevertheless, the administration now is facing crucial tests in both chambers, with the Senate considering legislation to stop the treasury's purchase of foreign silver and the House debating amendments to relax the wage-hour act. The Senate recessed over the week-end, and neither chamber will take a final vote before next week.

It appeared unlikely the Senate would consider this session any wage-hour amendments approved by the House or that the House would take up any Senate-approved silver bill.

Other strife was in the making over the Logan-Walter bill to subject rulings of federal administrative agencies to court review, proposed revision of the Wagner act, and measures to invalidate Roosevelt's two most recent plans for government reorganization.

Vice-President Garner was reported to be working quietly for the House-approved Logan-Walter bill.

Senate committee hearings were scheduled next week on the resolutions aimed at killing Roosevelt's reorganization proposals, and a hot Senate fight is in store over a provision incorporating the independent Civil Aeronautics Authority in the commerce department.

Reviewing the session thus far, administration lieutenants claimed that the President has suffered no setbacks and that with Secretary Hull, he has won an important triumph in extension of the trade program.

American Ships—

"Were the Germans well supplied when they came in?"
"Yes".
They were well-disciplined, too, he added.

He said they witnessed the sinking of a cruiser and a supply ship while they were tied up at Bergen.

"What happened to your cargo?"
"We discharged it".

The interviewer asked whether Captain Wollaston had seen any mines. He said he had seen moored contact mines in Bergen.

Marks of Bullets
"Could you have left that port without permission?"
"No, not without clearance papers".

The captain explained that marks of bullets on part of the superstructure were made when "a fortress was firing on a plane".

Gilbert, an able seaman, went on the air and told the interviewer:

"We were lying at a dock in Bergen. The Germans had a cruiser and a supply ship on the other side. They were attacked from the air by the British. That's how we got the bullet marks. We were hit by a British plane".

Gilbert said the ship was then moved four miles out. While lying there, he said, a British plane fired on them.

"I attributed it to the pilot's nervousness. He raked our decks. Fortunately he wasn't using incendiary bullets. He had been flying over the land dropping bombs and was evidently going home when he spotted us. So he swerved and came over us and let loose with the bullets".

Fish was showing her American colors, but that the British pilot probably didn't see them.

"You're sure it was a British plane?"
"Absolutely. The crew will tell you that. We signed papers to that effect in Bergen. And any man who has been under fire wouldn't mistake the ship that fired on him".

The Germans were extremely courteous, Gilbert said, when it came a pilot. Once outside the harbor, he said, they saw no British ships.

Second Special Session Sought to Boost Relief

Springfield, Ill., May 3—(AP)—A second special session of the legislature, to increase the state's $4,000,000 monthly relief grant, was sought today by the Illinois Conference on Social Legislation.

Contending the present allotment of state funds is inadequate, a delegation of 30 men and women representing the ICSSL presented the special session request to Alexander Wilson, Governor Horner's administrative assistant.

Ira H. Latimer, Chicago, secretary of the group, said he and a committee would try to interview Horner personally next week. He said the social legislation conference, composed of 130 organized labor and other organizations, also was seeking greater state aid for dependent children.

The current special session of the general assembly, which convened Tuesday, is barred for considering relief legislation since the subject was omitted from Horner's call, Wilson said.

The legislature last year made a two-year appropriation of $72,000,000 of state funds for direct relief, to be spent at the rate of $4,000,000 a month or sufficient to last until next January 1. The $4,000,000 rate of allocation was an increase of $1,000,000 a month.

"STAND-UP" SUPPER

The buffet supper was invented by Ude, celebrated chef of the time of Louis XVI of France. Women of the period often would forego refreshments rather than ruin crinolined, starched and frilled dresses by sitting down, so Ude conceived the idea of the "stand-up" supper.

Students and Faculty to Pay for New Illini Union Bldg. at Urbana

Champaign, Ill., May 3—(AP)—All students who enroll next September in the University of Illinois will be charged a fee of $5-per-semester to pay the operating costs and retire the capital loan of the new $1,400,000 Illini Union building.

President Arthur Cutts Willard, who made the announcement last night, said the faculty members also will be asked to pay a similar fee, while summer students must pay $2.50.

Funds for construction of the building, which will open next September 1, were supplied by a WPA grant and a loan from an insurance company.

Average "Old Grad" of U. Illinois is Only 32

Urbana, Ill., May 3—(AP)—The average "old grad" at the University of Illinois is not a graybeard at all, but is only 32 years old, the Alumni association reported today.

Seventy-five per cent of the 130,000 living alumni have received their degrees since 1922.

The size of recent classes swings the average alumni age to the youthful side. The first class graduated from the university, in 1872, numbered 20. Only one is alive today.

In 1898, the number of graduates was 109, first time past the 100 mark. Not until 1922 did it pass the 1,000-mark. That year it was 1,193. Last year, 2,237 names were added to the alumni list.

The average weight of the cars sold during 1939 was 2996 pounds, son: "Isaiah Gives God's Invitation."

Members of the Love and Unity Sunday school class of the Evangelical church were guests of the Willing Workers class in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was composed of the Mesdames Wesley J. Attig, Jenn Pfoutz and Paul Messer assisted by some of the members of the executive committee. Games of various kinds occupied the afternoon hours, with prizes being awarded to the winners.

Tea and light refreshments were served from a prettily appointed table, centered by a lovely bowl of spring flowers. Candelabras holding candles of pastel shades added much to the attractiveness. The Mesdames H. R. Zager and Paul M. Stephan poured. In behalf of the Love and Unity class Mrs. A. R. Kersten extended thanks for the very pleasant afternoon. The uniting of these classes in this social event proved to be a time of real fellowship.
